Youth Hub, Police Department in New Zealand

Blue Light is a registered charity that works in partnership with the police to deliver an extensive range of youth programmes and activities. They aim to provide young people with positive lifestyle alternatives and strategies to avoid becoming an offender or victim of crime. During 2024 the hub was equipped with Gymleco equipment to create a complete gym for the youths.

Uplifting youths' futures

► by Amy Fifita

New gym equipment has been successfully installed at the Dargaville Blue Light youth hub to aid the organisation with its programmes.

"The latest addition to our hub is a suite of new gym equipment, which we use to create tangible changes in our rangatahi as part of our youth development programmes," said Blue Light Dargaville chair Reuben Cohen.

With more than 40 rangatahi active in the programmes, Reuben said gym sessions have become a big part of their daily activities, and fitness will help the youth maintain mental and physical wellbeing.

▲ The Blue Light Dargaville team received a delivery of new gym equipment from the Muscle Department

"These sessions are much more than just doing a workout; they're about building self-esteem, discipline and respect. It's had a profound impact.

"We've seen some remarkable turnarounds in our young people. They are becoming more involved in the community, behaving better, and showing increased motivation and responsibility.

"The gym equipment then becomes a tool for the broader objective of ensuring youth have positive lifestyle choices and techniques to prevent them from becoming offenders or victims of crime.

These components ensure our youth possess the right skill sets to move forward in life."

Blue Light Dargaville is continuing its other services, providing youth with driver licensing and work-ready initiatives. The youth hub is at 42 Victoria Street, Dargaville in the Fosters Arcade.

"We encourage the community to visit our new hub to see these changes in action and join us in supporting our young people. Together, we can make a difference in our rangatahi's lives and help shape their future." ■
