INFORMATION ABOUT POLAND

Poland (Polish: Polska), is one of the larger countries in Central Europe. It has a long Baltic Sea coastline and is bordered by Belarus, the Czech Republic, Germany, Lithuania, Russia (the Kaliningrad Oblast exclave), Slovakia, and Ukraine.

The first cities in today's Poland, Kalisz and Elbląg, located on the Amber Trail to the Baltic Sea, were mentioned by Roman writers in the first century AD, yet the first Polish settlement in Biskupin dates even further back to the 7th century BC.

Poland became a unified kingdom in the first half of the 10th century, and officially adopted Catholicism in 966. The first major settlements were Poznań, Gniezno, Giecz, and Ostrów Lednicki. Gniezno was probably the most important city at that time, as the first king's coronation, of Bolesław the Brave, took place there in 1025. A decade later in 1038, the capital was moved to Kraków, where it remained for half a millennium.

Poland experienced its golden age from the 14th till the 16th century, under the reigns of King Casimir the Great and the Jagiellonian dynasty, whose rule extended from the Baltic to the Black and Adriatic seas.

By the 16th century, the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth was the largest country in Europe; the country attracted significant numbers of foreign migrants, including Germans, Jews, Armenians and the Dutch, thanks to the freedom of confession guaranteed by the state and the atmosphere of religious tolerance (rather exceptional in Europe at the time of the Holy Inquisition). Under the rule of the Vasa dynasty, the capital moved to Warsaw in 1596 where it is still now. Poland was the first country in Europe (and the second in the world, after the United States) to pass a written constitution on 3rd May 1791.

In the end of 18th century the country was in political disarray, various sections of Poland were subsequently occupied by neighboring states, including Russia, Prussia and Austria, who coordinated three "partitions" of Poland in 1772, 1793, and 1795. After the last partition and a failed uprising, Poland ceased to exist as a country for 123 years.

Poland returned to the European map with the end of World War I, officially regaining its independence on 11 November 1918. From the ashes of Europe's fallen empires, the Polish Second Republic became embroiled in violent territorial disputes with other new states, including Czechoslovakia on the south, and Soviet Russia to the east, which it fought a bloody war against between 1919-1921.

World War II officially began with an attack on Poland by Nazi Germany from the west and north, followed by an attack by the Soviet Union from the east. Only a few days prior to the start of WWII, the Soviet Union and Germany had signed a secret pact of non-aggression, which called for the redivision of the newly independent central and eastern European nations. Germany attacked Poland on 1 September 1939, and the Soviet Union invaded on 17 September, effectively starting the fourth partition, causing the Second Republic to cease to exist.

After World War II, Poland was forced to become a socialist republic, adopting a strong pro-Soviet stance. In 1989 in partially-free elections, the communists were finally removed from power. The election was the start of a domino effect of peaceful, anti-communist revolutions across the Eastern Bloc throughout that year.

Nowadays, Poland is a democratic parliamentary republic with a stable, robust economy, a member of NATO since 1999, and the European Union since 2004. Poland's dream of rejoining Europe as an independent nation at peace and in mutual respect of its neighbors' has finally been achieved.

INFORMATION ABOUT VOIVODESHIP

Lubusz Voivodeship, or Lubuskie Province (in Polish, województwo lubuskie; German: Woiwodschaft Lebus), is a voivodeship (province) in western Poland.

It was created on January 1, 1999, out of the former Gorzów Wielkopolski and Zielona Góra Voivodeships, pursuant to the Polish local government reforms adopted in 1998. The province's name recalls the historic Lubusz Land, although parts of the voivodeship belong to the historic regions of Silesia, Greater Poland and Lusatia. Until 1945, it mainly formed the Neumark within the Prussian Province of Brandenburg. The functions of regional capital are shared between two cities: Gorzów Wielkopolski and Zielona Góra. Gorzów serves as the seat of the centrally appointed voivode or governor, while Zielona Góra is the seat of the elected regional assembly (sejmik) and the executive elected by that assembly, headed by the marszałek the region is mainly flat, with many lakes and woodlands the south, around Zielona Góra, grapes are cultivated. Lubusz Voivodeship borders West Pomeranian Voivodeship to the north, Greater Poland Voivodeship to the east, Lower Silesian Voivodeship to the south, and Germany (Brandenburg and Saxony) to the west.

GENERAL INFORMATION

One of the main goals of CISM is peace through sport the aim of which is to create friendly relations between members of the Armed Forces. It is a strong motive and a great opportunity to increase contacts among military sportsmen and sportswomen within CISM, due to the power of sport to bring about positive social change.

Sport has historically played an important role on peace building process. CISM is the sole organization able to bring together militaries from all nations to share experiences in sports fields, instead of battle. This underlines the importance of CISM's outreach to, and linking up with other international organizations.

The motto of CISM "Friendship through Sport" has always been the leading force of CISM, as the development of "friendly relations between the Armed Forces of member nations". In fact, the notion has a much wider meaning, as soldiers, who have lived through the experience of friendship with their "supposed opponents on the battle-field", are nurturing the best memories and are bringing along this experience in their future occupation, be it a military career or a civilian one.

Nowadays CISM is working towards several activities in behalf of peace and sport, like CISM Day Run for Peace, CISM Futsal Cup for Peace, CISM Judo East Tournament, and others.

Do you have a good idea for a Sport for Peace project? Let's talk about it!
